Ethos

Soaring Heights Care understands the individual and varying needs of each Child and Young Person; we therefore do not apply a "one size fits all" approach. Instead, our trained and practising Social Support Workers will work with Children and Young Person's to explore their life experiences, with a view to empowering them to strive for positive outcomes.

Our in house Support Workers work tirelessly to assist our Children and Young People to modify their behaviour, develop better perspectives when managing conflict and also to gain insight into how emotions impact on their behaviour. This is achieved through direct work, ongoing observations and setting targets. This will be in addition to regular reviews that can be incorporated by the Local Authority to inform their outcomes and reduce risk.

We offer 24-hour support with consistent staffing providing ongoing one to one support to the Children and Young People within the Supported Accommodation. We also provide emotional support and individually tailored programmes that meet Children and Young Persons assessed needs.

Our Ethos is to also:

- To provide high quality support services that make a positive difference to Children and Young People.
- To ensure staff work effectively together to support Children and Young People to stay safe and receive the right support.
- To provide opportunities for Children and Young People to receive specialist tailored support and assistance in enrolling in education, apprenticeships or work. Prioritising progress, and the achievement of positive outcomes, to maximise the long-term benefits to both Children and Young Persons and the community.

- To build resilience within Children and Young People and equip them with the inner resources and sense of self-worth to develop and sustain relationships and enhance their dignity and life chances.

Outcomes we seek to achieve

Our primary aim is to enable Children and Young People who struggle with social and emotional difficulties or multiple, complex needs to reach their full personal potential for learning, independence and fulfilment in everyday life. We seek to achieve this by providing a happy and stimulating, yet safe and caring environment.

How our outcomes will be achieved

Our Approach

The philosophy and ethos of Soaring Heights Care is about creating a Holistic environmental experience in which Children and Young People can develop and grow through our person-centred model. Soaring Heights Care is not a substitute for family life but is faced with similar responsibilities. It is our expressed intention to ensure that Children and Young People in our care have the security and resources to develop physically and emotionally in a safe and stable environment.

Our approach is based upon the person-centred humanistic model. Simply put, we create a holistic environment that places the person at the centre, to make the person important. Our approach incorporates how we seek to encourage Children and Young People to fulfil their needs and achieve their potential through empowerment, acceptance, communication and genuineness. It is therefore part of the ethos of Soaring Heights Care to respect all as individuals and to promote the development of Children and Young People in our homes.

The provision of support will be centred on the needs of the individual Children and Young People. We aim to provide homes where Children and Young People will feel safe and happy and able to express their personalities and engage in Key Work Sessions with a view to promoting positive outcomes and resilience. This in turn will promote self-esteem and confidence of Children and Young People and help them to feel valued. Furthermore, it is our belief that it is never too late to be able to turn yourself around regardless of the Child or Young Person's level of understanding, also to achieve anything with the right level of commitment, dedication, perseverance, planning and support.

Our Support Service is delivered flexibly and attentively while respecting each Child and Young People right to independence, privacy, dignity, fulfilment and, where appropriate, the rights to make informed choices and take risks.

Whilst the Child or Young Person's energies are being channelled constructively, Soaring Heights Care offers Children and Young People the chance to develop the discipline and routines necessary to integrate into society successfully. The Children and Young People develop a confidence in their ability to achieve and, in many cases, this spills over into areas of personal development and into Key Work, support planning and emotional growth.

Doing nothing is not an option that is available for Children and Young People. Depending upon age and ability, education, employment and apprenticeships are available locally.

The education programmes are designed to provide structure and routine and to develop confidence and concentration as well as foster achievement, this achievement is built upon to assist the Children and Young People back into further education or employment, and or apprenticeships.

We carry out comprehensive need's assessments on each Young Person to identify their level of functioning and how this might be best responded to in order to be able to provide for their emotional and cognitive development, thus enabling them to effectively develop socially, behaviourally and educationally. Interventions for these needs are detailed in plans that are developed from this assessment process.

It is hoped that, having spent time at Soaring Heights Care, the Child and Young Persons will have learned the value of respect for themselves and for others. They will have been challenged and stretched developmentally and emotionally to reflect upon their past and develop positive alternative strategies to replace existing negative responses to stress and adversity.

Soaring Heights Care embraces the necessity to provide a stimulating environment for Children and Young People that require support in a Supported Accommodation setting away from family and significant attachments. We recognise that any disruption in a Young Person's development through separation, neglect or abuse requires a therapeutic approach when providing support mechanisms.

Soaring Heights Care primary task is to provide a stable and substituted support setting that does not compound the earlier trauma as well as to ensure a pattern of placement breakdowns does not continue.

How are the models measured for effectiveness?

The aim of our models is to increase the Children and Young People's opportunities for positive outcomes for their future and assist them in changing learned patterns of behaviour. The model is a basic framework within which Children and Young People are able to stabilise behaviour, reflect on and learn new ways of addressing difficult issues that are age appropriate and based on their individual ability. It is important for attaining successful outcomes in the placement that methods of intervention are used from an integrative framework which is used creatively.

Soaring Heights Care uses an assessment tool every three months to measure the progress for each Child or Young Person drawing on events, academic progress, feedback from families and professionals, consultation with therapists and other relevant sources.

Qualitative outcomes monitored include:

- Feedback from family and improved relationship with the Children and Young People (where applicable)
- Overall health is improved

Quantitative outcomes monitored include:

- Risk management outcomes
- Attendance in education (or other i.e. employment, apprenticeships)
- Attainment in education based on their ability from their baseline assessment when placed in their prospective home
- Health needs are met
- Children and Young People's' active participation in the daily program

The data and findings are pulled together in an analysis report including any clear and objective targets to be worked towards for the following three months.
